

AIDE STATION—Young entrepreneurs Rocky, left, and Joe Marengo, capitalize on the hot and muggy weather that has the area feeling like a sauna. The brothers, sons of E.J. and Janet Marengo, said they had made almost $20 in the three days they have been running their lemonade stand at 408 Carroll Avenue in Bay St. Louis. They were quick to mention that they usually set up the stand in late morning and stay open until about 6 p.m. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

Neighborhood fed up, drugs, crime must go

BY D.C. HARVILL

Bay St. Louis, like every other city in the country, has a growing problem with drugs and drug-related crime. The city's new administration, spurred on by citizens who have had enough, has vowed to clean up the situation.

Alvina Nichols, earlier this week, said she cannot sit idle while her town is taken over by these threats.

"This is my town—I was born and raised here and I want to live here, but it's getting so people can't sit on their porch for the smell of dope," she said.

Last month, Nichols presented the city council with a petition containing the names of 65 people living in the area around St. Francis and Sycamore Streets who are fed up with the drug traffic and violence in the Ward Three neighborhood.

A large crowd often can be found congregated at the intersection of the two streets and drug deals reportedly are not uncommon. In recent months, a large percentage of the city's drug arrests have been in the vicinity.

Nichols complained that police did not patrol the neighborhood adequately, that she believed they often intentionally avoided the area.

"One day there was a crowd gambling in the street and a police car passed by a block away, on Washington Street, and they didn't even stop," Nichols said. "Patrolling Washington is not enough."

According to Mayor Edward Favre he and Ward Three Councilman Thomas Farve are working closely trying to find a solution to the situation.

"We're looking at it from the standpoint that we don't have just one problem area, we have several. We are looking for ways to solve all of them at the same time," the mayor said.

The most immediate effort toward solving the problem calls for a greater police presence in the problem areas. The mayor hopes to accomplish this by adding manpower to the force, or by reorganizing the department to provide more time for patrolling the areas.

The mayor also is counting on the city's residents to take an active role in crime prevention.

"We are hoping that people throughout the city will help us by participating in Neighborhood Watch groups. That might free up some time for the police to patrol problem areas. We can double or triple the size of the police force and not solve the problem, we have to have help from the people," Favre said. "It is obvious, from the petition presented by Mrs. Nichols, that people want changes and are willing to do something," he added.

The only real solution to the problem, Favre said, lies in instilling personal pride in people at an early age, giving them alternatives to "hanging out and taking drugs" and providing them with opportunities they have not had before.

"Tom (Favre) and I are committed to cleaning up this problem," the mayor said.

Nichols this week expressed, in one sentence, the concern and commitment of the residents for whom she was speaking. "We've got to take back our town."

Secretary provides new hope in fight to save ammo plant

New hope was breathed into the fight to save the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant Friday by word that the decision to close the plant will be reconsidered.

According to U.S. Representative Larkin Smith, Secretary of the Army John Marsh is going to review the prior decision to close the plant.

"He told me he was directing the Army to take another look at the options at the Army ammo plant to include conversion," Smith said.

The plant can be converted to production of a projectile that is newer and more effective than the one currently manufactured there, according to supporters of the plant.

At a meeting in Picayune Friday, a task force organized to fight the Pentagon's apparent decision to close the plant decided to purchase a $3,700, full-page advertisement in the National Defense News, a publication read by many Army officials.

The cost will be defrayed by local donations from Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties and St. Tammany parish in Louisiana, according to Libby Roland, executive director of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Ted Alexander, president of Pearl River Community College told the group of the unfortunate fate of 1600 persons who have received technical training at the college in preparation for employment at the plant. "Our investment is only 50 percent complete," he said.

Senator Margaret (Woots) Tate of Picayune told the group that she had received information indicating that a decision would be made in Washington within the next two weeks.

The group also plans to send out press releases, outlining reasons for keeping the plant open, to newspapers locally and across the nation.

Supervisors approve five-year fire plan

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has accepted a five-year development plan for county fire protection.

The plan was presented Friday by County Fire Service Coordinator Jay Marsh.

Under new legislation, the plan is required by the state fire coordinator and state insurance commissioner in order for the county to participate in future funding. In addition, the new law is designed to assist counties in updating fire service and life-saving capabilities.

Marsh stated that the plan, in its present form, is generalized. More detailed information can be supplied to the two state offices prior to the implementation of each of the goals included in the document.

Under an extension from the regular June 1 deadline that Marsh obtained, the five-year plan must be submitted by Aug. 1.

The five-year period for implementation begins Oct. 1 and continues through Sept. 30, 1994.

Marsh said he hopes the plan will help provide more efficient fire protection to the citizens of Hancock County at a reasonable cost by lowering insurance rates.

Its purpose also includes adding to the county's tax structure by enhancing new construction and encouraging new residents to locate within the county.

The first goal in the plan is to have the entire county covered by fire protection districts with all districts requesting millage by July 1, 1990.

These districts, headed by a board of commissioners, allow a specific geographic area served by a particular fire department to receive revenue from a special tax levy of up to four mills. Under state law, that money must be spent for fire protection.

Existing fire protection districts include Diamondhead, currently the only one with a paid fire department instead of a volunteer fire department; BaySide Park, East Hancock, Kiln and Fenton.

New districts must exist for one year before they can begin receiving tax revenues. They are created by the board of supervisors following receipt of a petition from residents of the area to be covered and other documentation. A legal advertisement is then required.

Those petitioned and still pending include Leetown, West Hancock and Post 58 in Standard.

Clermont Harbor is the only volunteer fire department which has not yet petitioned for

Fake altar at church probably not Satanic

An "altar" discovered under St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis apparently is not satanic, according to Police Chief Ray Murphy.

The altar was found Friday in a crawl space beneath the church.

The crawl space, used for maintenance access, was entered through a hole that usually is boarded up. The board had been out of place for about two months, according to Peter Sylvester, the St. Rose priest who discovered the fake altar.

According to Murphy, none of the items found at the altar, including a small prayer stool, candles, old vestments and American flags, have any Satanic significance. He did question the presence of two hanging ropes.

"It was obviously kids—I hope," Murphy said.

He surmised that a couple of dead pigeons found with the altar had merely died since there was no indication that they had been killed in a ritualistic manner.

"They just looked like they died," he said.

Murphy said his biggest concern is that the candles could have set fire to the church.

The incident is still under investigation.

Waveland woman killed in wreck

A Waveland woman who died in a one-vehicle accident Thursday morning may have fallen asleep at the wheel.

Hancock County Medical Examiner Harold Stiglet said Omaha R. Taylor, 67, of 327 Terrace Ave., was dead at the accident scene on Central Avenue.

The accident occurred at about 5 a.m. when she apparently lost control of the car and skidded 60 feet through a nine-foot ditch, stopping when the vehicle hit a concrete embankment at Central and Piney Ridge.

Stiglet, who said she may have fallen asleep, stated that an autopsy was scheduled to determine the exact cause of death.

The woman was alone in the vehicle at the time of the accident.

Camp to help teens say no to drugs

BY D.C. HARVILL

A group of Bay Senior High students are conducting a camp designed to help teenagers to avoid becoming involved with drugs.

The camp, sponsored by the Bay High Chapter of Student Athletes Detest Drugs, will be August 2-4 at Bay Junior High Gym.

The camp, open to all seventh and eighth graders, will teach teens to think for themselves instead of giving in to peer pressure, according to faculty coordinator Kathy Edwards.

The students who will be running the camp recently attended a Drug Research and Education Association in Mississippi (DREAM) seminar in Jackson on how teens can educate their peers about the hazards of drugs and why they should not use them.

For more information on the camp contact Kathy Edwards at 467-5599.

Retirees: Opt for new career

Now that you've received your gold watch and said goodbye to the nine to five workday, you may be interested in starting your own business.

If so, be aware that professional wallprinting is the investment of the decade. Dubbed "hottest new money-maker" by Entrepreneur Magazine, wallprinting is not a self-taught process, but when equipment is purchased from Solution to Wallpaper, thorough marketing advice and comprehensive hands-on training are included.

Making a transition from retirement to wallprinting professional was an easy one for a 70-year-old retired Navy commander who established his own wallprinting business.

Within two weeks of completing his training, he landed a job wallprinting 75 officer's quarters, which more than paid for his initial investment.

Bill Edholm, president and chairman of the board, Solution to Wallpaper, explains that a wallprinter uses a self-contained, hand-held printing press. This unique process applies a durable latex wallpaper type design, in liquid form, directly to the walls.

Solution to Wallpaper's wallprinting process can be applied in a choice of 1,600 custom colors to almost any wall surface. There is no gluing, there are no seams to match, no peeling, nothing to tear or come loose, no wasted material.

It's washable, it's simple, and quick with no mess or odor, and it dries to the touch in 15 minutes. To redecorate, just paint it out.

The best news is that your potential wallprinting package from Solution to Wallpaper is a very complete program.

"We want our people to be very successful, so we give them all of the secrets we've learned," says Edholm, who undoubtedly has more actual wallprinting experience than anyone in the U.S. to date.

Solution to Wallpaper offers two packages: The Basic Package for $8,500 and the Professional Package for $13,500.

The professional package includes:

- Four full days of wallprinting application and marketing training at a California training facility, learning everything there is to know from experts. If you have a partner or employee, Solution to Wallpaper will train both of you, at no additional charge.

- Four complete wallprinting machines (so that you will be able to have up to four people working at the same time).

- The most extensive marketing assistance, covering everything from locating and identifying the potential customer, to how to approach them.

Also, how to bid a job; secrets on how to harmonize colors safely to eliminate common mistakes; how to generate leads; using free advertising, and many more ideas that work.

- Sales tools, such as brochures, professional color photographs of completed jobs, and even business cards which show what wallprinting is, all giving a very professional image, from day one.

- Ongoing assistance—if you have a question or problem, just phone.

The danger contained in many of the business opportunities with which the retired person is constantly confronted, is that they just sound too good to be true—but that's not the case with the opportunity available though Solution to Wallpaper Inc.

For additional information on becoming a professional wallprinter, or for names of wallprinters in your area, send your name, address and phone number to Solution to Wallpaper Inc., 83 E. Shaw, Suite 250-A, Fresno, CA 93710, or call (209) 432-7181.

In Memoriam

A tribute to
SHELDON SEUZENEAU

The people of Bay St. Louis have suffered a great loss with the passing of Sheldon Seuzeneau.

My friendship with this special man began seven years ago when my son and I went into his paint store on Railroad Street.

Ricky (Geno to his friends) did not make friends easily when he was growing up. He was teased a lot by his classmates and was shy. Things improved when we moved to Bay St. Louis as the people here were warm and friendly. Then we met Mr. Seuzeneau and Ricky's life changed.

This man taught me more about love, compassion, kindness and patience than anyone I've ever known.

He took the time to listen, to guide and care for my son like no one ever had before. He became foster grandfather, brother, dearest friend.

They were constant companions. It was rare to see one without the other. He gave Ricky confidence and taught him self-respect, but most of all, he taught him to love life. He made him happy.

Then he died. We will miss him so much. I hope he will continue to watch over his friend just as before.

I'm thankful for the few years we knew him. He made a difference in my son's life. He knew how much I appreciated him. I told him often, and now I'm glad I did.

In those seven years, he did what some parents fail to do in a lifetime. He helped Ricky find his place in life and to accept himself and others the way they are.

I will never forget him and what he gave my son. He will live in our hearts forever.

ON PATROL

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT

Two Bay St. Louis men have been arrested in connection with the cutting and beating of another Bay resident.

According to Investigator Tom Burleson, Bay St. Louis Police arrested Adrian Saucier, 25, 430 Labat St. and Darryl Singleton, 31, 130 Cathy Dr., early Thursday morning at their respective homes.

Both men have been charged with aggravated assault and remain incarcerated on $5,000 bonds. A preliminary hearing has been set for August 2.

The incident occurred at the corner of Sycamore and St. Francis Streets. Victim Leo Garrett allegedly was hit in the face with a bottle and beaten with a pipe, reportedly started over a beer, Burleson said.

Garrett, whom Burleson said had been required stitches to the face, was treated and released at Hancock Medical Center.

BUSINESS BURGLARY

A Gulfport man has been arrested by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department for allegedly stealing aluminum from a business at Stennis Air Park.

According to Investigator Nathan Hoda, Leonard Compton, 28, 1005 W. Birch St., Gulfport, was arrested after George Thornton, a security guard with Gulf Coast Security reported a possible burglar at Thermal Associates.

Compton, a former employee of the company, has been charged with five counts of burglarizing a business. He allegedly had stolen and sold for scrap an estimated $15,000 of aluminum that had been cut to certain specifications for the business' clients.

"He nearly put them out of business," Hoda said.

WEED HAUL

Two Texas men were arrested Tuesday after a search by a Mississippi Highway Patrol trooper turned up 54 pounds of marijuana in their car.

Macario Rangel, 35, and Luis R. Ochoa, 25, both of Houston are being held in Hancock County Justice Facility, charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute.

According to Patrol Information Officer Joe Gazzo, the arrests were made after Trooper Joe Nelson stopped a speeded, out-of-state Trans-Am on Interstate 10 near the Diamondhead exit.

While issuing the driver, Rangel, citations for speeding, an improper license plate and driving without a license, Nelson smelled the marijuana, which was stored in two plastic garbage bags, Gazzo said.

Both subjects are being held without bond pending court action.

A story in Thursday's edition of The Sea Coast Echo describing community complaints to the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board on the design of the proposed high school auditorium incorrectly identified two people as representing local theatre groups.

Ammunition Plant commander to address Morning Edition

Lt. Col Stephen Zakrzewski, commander of the Mississippi Army Ammunitions Plant, will be the featured speaker at the Thursday, July 20 Morning Edition Coffee at the Wheel Inn Restaurant on Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis beginning at 7:30 a.m.

Topic will be the $700 million world class facility, its 1990 slowdown and possible closure in 1992.

The facility employs approximately 1,750 people, 350 of these are Hancock County residents. It is estimated that the plant closing will have an $84 million impact within a 50-mile radius.

Chamber President Randy Castello and members of the board of supervisors have been working with representatives from Pearl River and Harrison County and also St. Tammany Parish gathering information and implementing strategies to prevent the closure.

"Please support this effort by writing our legislators asking that they continue their support and push for the needed appropriations to maintain the facility. Also write letters to the Army officials asking that they reconsider their decision. The addresses are listed below for your convenience," said Castello.

This is a crucial time for the ammunition plant and we urge all chamber members to attend this informative meeting.

Special thanks to Henry Marz, GM&R Construction Co. Inc. for sponsoring the July Morning Edition.

Plan

a district, according to county records.

A second goal is providing water supplies for fire fighting throughout the country.

Marsh's plan states that either dry hydrants or water storage should be provided, with hydrant connections every two miles or less on every county road, making every residence no more than one mile from a water source.

To do so would take about 150 hydrants at a cost of $1,000 or less with half the money coming from fire districts and the other half from county funds.

Other proposals include establishment of four more fire stations, satellite facilities for existing fire departments, in the county. This would place 90 percent of the population within five miles of a fire station.

The plan calls for half of these to be operating by Sept. 30, 1989.

Other goals include:

—Having 90 percent of the population utilizing smoke detectors through an awareness campaign;

—To have a majority of residences with fire extinguisher, accomplished through a public relations campaign;

—To have each fire station equipped with at least one fire engine and one tanker;

—To have a high reduction in fire losses;

—To have 60 percent in Class Nine insurance-rated areas, which requires sufficient water supplies, proper equipment and training to meet the standards of the state rating bureau;

—To have at least one paid firefighter on duty at each volunteer department during daytime business hours; and —To have passage and enforcement of fire and building codes in Hancock County.

The board accepted the plan on a unanimous roll-call vote.

The next board of supervisors meeting will be 9 a.m. July 28 in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Jack Lee appointed director of Marshall

NASA Administrator Richard H. Truly announced the appointment of Thomas J. (Jack) Lee to be director of the Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., effective immediately.

Lee, 54, succeeds James R. Thompson Jr. who was selected by President Bush to be the NASA deputy administrator.

Lee has been the Marshall Center's deputy director since December 1980, after seven years as manager of the Space-lab program at the center. From July to September 1986, he served as acting director of the center.

In addition to his responsibilities as deputy director, Lee has served as manager of the Heavy Lift Launch Vehicle Definition Office, which is leading NASA's efforts to define and develop a heavy lift launch vehicle capable of meeting national requirements.

As Marshall Center director, Lee is charged with overall management of one of the largest and most diversified of the NASA field centers. The center, with 3,500 employees, has responsibility for the design and development of space transportation systems, orbital systems, scientific and applications payloads, and other projects for present and future space exploration, research and commercial developments.

Nesbitt, a Pass Christian resident, coordinates the nursing program on Cary's Coast campus and teaches in the Carey School of Nursing at Southern Baptist Hospital in New Orleans.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

Those of us who drive the streets of Bay St. Louis are aware of the numerous 4-way stop signs throughout the city.

A local motorist reported to me Friday that he was almost struck at three of five intersections as he was on his way to the newspaper's office.

It seems some folks must have 'summer fever' and ignore the importance of coming to a complete stop at 4-way intersections.

Local police have had the 4-way stop signs installed for a purpose, which is to have every vehicle come to a complete stop at those intersections.

We seem to have far too many accidents for a city of our size and some possibly could be avoided if motorists paid more attention to posted signs.

A big celebration will be held today at the John C. Stennis Space Center's Visitors Center in honor of the 29th anniversary of the historic Apollo 11 liftoff which took the world's first men to the moon.

There will be all types of entertainment for the family at the Visitors Center which is located at the John C. Stennis Space Center, along with 30¢ hot dogs and 20¢ soft drinks, free rides in a seven-story hot air balloon (weather permitting), and continuous video playbacks of the Apollo 11 lunar landing at the Visitors Center auditorium.

There will also be continuing tours this afternoon with stops at various places not normally open to the general public.

The extra special festivities will run from 1 to 6 p.m. today at the Visitors Center, which is open every day of the year except Christmas.

Other featured entertainment will be provided by the Natchez, La. Band, and a special appearance by Artie Shaw, Mount Street Blues.

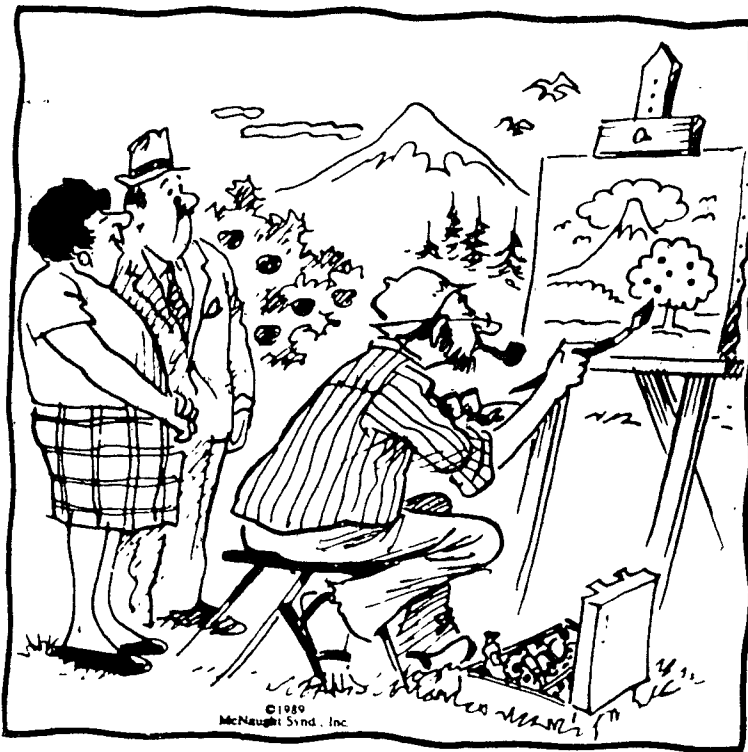

When you make your visit, be sure to take advantage of the special Apollo 11 program at the John C. Stennis Space Center.

Legislation in the making to tax direct mail-order sales

Direct mail-order houses are said to command 15 percent of the nation's retail market, accounting for $35 billion of what Americans buy each year.

What states such as Mississippi which have a sales tax are upset about is that the mail-order business is escaping some $4 billion in sales taxes a year nationally.

Of course, Mississippi has a use tax law that says each purchaser is supposed to pay the state sales tax on out-of-state purchases. But unless the seller collects the tax on the front end, the average purchaser from L. I. Bean or Land's End or Banana Republic is not going to pay any state sales tax.

In Mississippi alone, the state Tax Commission figures that direct mail-order sales from out-of-state catalog houses are costing the state $19 million a year in lost sales taxes.

And since Mississippi municipalities get approximately 20 percent of the state sales taxes, that means the cities and towns are losing $4 million a year in potential revenue.

Not only the state and the cities have a stake in the untaxed sales of mail-order merchandise. In-state retailers contend they are deprived of a level playing field when they have to add 6 percent sales tax to the price of a $250 topcoat or a $100 pair of slacks.

Because of a 1967 U.S. Supreme Court ruling, there's

IN CONGRESS

By Congressman

LARKIN SMITH

Ports must be improved to keep pace with competition

Our nation's ports are facing tremendous financial hurdles as they attempt to keep pace with the demands of international trade competition.

The need to improve and add to existing port infrastructure facilities affects all regions of the country, especially South Mississippi.

Two bills that I am cosponsoring this year in Congress are aimed at improving the competitive position of ports such as Gulfport's and Pascagoula's.

1. The Port Improvement Act of 1989. This bill would create a federal low-interest revolving loan fund for port infrastructure. This fund would be financed by a 0.5 percent appropriation of funds earned in Customs revenues for the first year, and then 1 percent for the next two years. The fund would then be perpetuated through interest payments on the loans.

This is a modest amount considering that some $16 billion was earned in 1988 in Customs revenues—but there is only a small federal investment in our ports. Upgraded port facilities are vital to a strong U.S. trade position; 95 percent of all foreign trade comes through our ports.

This increased federal role in helping our ports is important, not only because of the need to improve our position in the international trade war, but also because the federal role has diminished significantly. For example, channel and harbor projects now require more local cost sharing.

Eligibility for these loans would be based on similar criteria used in the Urban Development Action Grant program. There is also a requirement in the bill to aid smaller ports.

2. The Fair and Equitable Cargo Allocation Act. This bill would repeal a highly discriminatory provision of the Food Security Act of 1985 known as the Great Lakes Cargo Set-Aside Program. There are a number of important reasons why this program should be repealed:

* The set-aside has cost American taxpayers an additional $4.3 million because of the noncompetitive handling costs of Great Lakes ports.

* It has denied ports on the East, West and Gulf coastal regions of our nation access to more than 300,000 metric tons of government cargo.

* It has resulted in the loss of hundreds of hours of work for longshoremen, stevedores, pilots and other port workers in states such as Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

* It has resulted in the loss of millions of tons of cargo for starving people and U.S. farmers since no additional funds have ever been appropriated to pay the higher handling costs associated with the set-aside.

* The set-aside violates the port preference clause of our Constitution, which says that "no preference shall be given to the ports of one state over those of another."

All ports should be given the opportunity to bid on government cargo in an open, fair and competitive basis.

I am urging my colleagues in Congress to pass both bills and help our nation's ports cross the hurdles they face in competing for international trade.

FROM THE SENATE

By U.S. Senator Trent Lott

We must solve crime problem across nation

More than 20,000 Americans are murdered each year. More than 167,000 are raped. And more than six million American homes are burglarized. Crime is on the rise and the numbers are frightening.

So what can we do to lessen that fear? We must solve the problem of crime.

First, we must establish that government, primarily through law enforcement, has an obligation to protect its citizens and their property.

Second, we must rid our offices, our classrooms and our homes of illegal drugs.

Third, we must hold those people who commit criminal offenses accountable for their actions. And finally, our criminal justice system must provide for swift and certain apprehension, prosecution and incarceration of those who break the law.

Winning the war on crime and drugs will take more than money. To a much greater extent, it is a battle of wills in deciding whether we, as a nation, are prepared to fight the war on crime with the appropriate manpower and judicial strength. Our commitment will be tested. Unlike the Arab-Israeli War of 1967, this battle won't be over in less than a week.

For too long, we've placed the rights of the criminal higher than those of the victim. While due process must be followed, straightening out our priorities is an essential first step.

Solving our drug problem won't be easy, but it can be done. It will require innovative leadership like we are getting from William Bennett; the President's Drug Czar, strengthened education efforts in our schools, and tougher action against those countries in the drug supply business. I have supported cutting off all foreign aid to these countries and I will continue to do so.

But our efforts should not end there. We should require drug testing as a condition of federal probation, parole or release. If the need for drugs caused a person to lie, cheat or steal the first time, we must ensure, to the best of our ability, that it won't happen again.

I'm sick and tired of political leaders talking tough about crime and drugs, only to side with the liberal civil libertarians when it actually comes to voting on crime-busting issues. If we are going to make a real difference, we should end plea bargaining for violent federal firearm offenses and restore the death penalty for the most heinous federal crimes. Those who use guns while committing a crime should do hard time. Those who kill should pay with their life.

But what good will these tougher laws be if we don't have the support to enforce them? New federal agents, new assistant U.S. attorneys and judges, if we need them, will add needed muscle to our punch.

And we will have to have the prison space to house these additional prisoners. Empty military bases may be one answer. Overcrowding is a national problem and most acute at the federal level. It is factor in sentencing, though it shouldn't be, and often responsible for the early release of convicted criminals.

If we are going to solve our drug and crime problem, we will have to send a clear message to would-be criminals; if you commit a crime you will be caught, prosecuted to the letter of the law and, if convicted, you will pay the price.

Do we really need to tell each other what to do?

"Honk if you love the Saints." "Don't follow me—I'm lost too." "If you don't like the way I drive, stay off the sidewalk." "If you can read this, thank a teacher." "Pay police like your life depends on it."

You may have seen any or all of the above written on the bumper of a car ahead of you.

There are many messages available on bumper stickers, ranging from school or team slogans like the first one and public service notes like the last two, to things which are downright silly.

The ones I have selected above, however, all have the something in common—their grammatical structure. (That's right, I did say grammatical structure. After all, by education I should have been an English teacher.)

Think about what these phrases do. They are all structured to COMMAND you to do something.

The worst ones are, of course, "Have a nice day" and its spin-off, "Don't tell me what kind of day to have."

Other than the public services messages, which have a serious tone, all of these commands seem to be presented in good fun.

There are a few lunatics out there who will take literally such messages as "Never mind the dog—Beware of the owner," but I think most people understand the true spirit of bumper stickers.

Even though these commands are not actually expected to be obeyed, they do reflect something I see becoming more and more prevalent in society today—A growing tendency to tell other people what to do, whether or not you're actually called upon or have any authority to do so.

The language of the bumper stickers comes from a change in America's speech habits. I don't know when or why this change came about, but I've found that I've participated in it and I don't like it.

People used to express their opinions in a much nicer manner, not in direct commands. Even requests were expressed as requests, not as commands.

Commands were exchanged between people who were supervising others and those being supervised, such as between parents and children, teachers and students or bosses and employees.

Only a few people still do this. Listening not only to what is being said, but how it is being said, will reveal that most Americans have lost their politeness.

I work with somebody who hasn't gone with the masses on this. I kid her and call her "Miss Manners," but I actually admire her.

She supervises a few people and has every right to speak in direct commands, but she doesn't. Her work orders are generally phrased as requests.

She asks what her staff is working on, then, if it does not suit her, she asks something like, "Would you mind working on such-and-such first? I need that earlier."

Some people might say that doesn't sound particularly assertive, but it's considerably more polite than most people are; it also gives those things she phrases as commands more weight. If she says, "Do this," I know it is important.

Americans, after all, are in general too emphatic in their speech. When emphasis words become common, people take less notice of them.

Swearing, for example, could once be used for emphasis. When a person only used words like "damn" on rare occasions, people paid attention to what he said. If he started using them frequently, they became no more important than "a," "an," and "the."

It is rather like the editor I once heard about who found the word "very" to be considerably over-used when he took over a new paper. He instructed his staff only to use "very" when "damn," which had not yet become common in print, could be substituted without changing the meaning of the sentence.

Do we really have a constant need to tell other people what to do? Or has it just become a habit? It's definitely a subject for some thought.

Have a nice day.

BMR seeks public opinion on reefs

Bureau of Marine Resources officials are seeking public comment concerning the construction of three artificial reefs in the Mississippi Sound.

Representatives of Mississippi Gulf Fishing Banks Inc. filed an application in May to create the low-profile reefs.

The purpose of the reefs will be to enhance recreational fishing.

The reefs will be created by placing between one and two feet of oyster shell over a three-acre area at each of the reef sites.

Locations of the reefs are as follows:

—Reef FH-8. Located in 15 feet of water about 2.5 nautical miles due west of Gulfport Ship Channel Marker 45. Northeast Loran coordinate 12187.7/47082.0.

—Reef FH-9. Located near a wreck in about 17 feet of water and about six nautical miles due west of Gulfport Ship Channel Marker 47 at a point of intersection near the gas pipeline. Northeast Loran coordinate 12226.7/47082.0.

—Reef FH-10. Located at the northernmost edge of the Middle Ground about 1.25 nautical miles off the northern shore of Horn Island in about 12 feet of water. Northeast Loran coordinate 12382.2/47085.4.

BMR officials say that they intend to issue the permits if no negative comments are received by July 25.

Comments may be made by contacting the BMR at 2620 West Beach Blvd., Biloxi, MS 39532, telephone 385-5860.

Drum, bugle corps competition featured

The Keesler Jaycees, along with WLOX-TV and WZLX-FM (Power 108), will host one of the most spectacular displays of musical entertainment and spirited competition to be featured at the Sounds Along the Golden Coast, Sunday, Aug. 6 at the Biloxi Municipal Stadium beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Five of the top drum and bugle corps from the United States will bring their musical productions to life through the creative use of colors, choreography, costuming, props and intricate drill designs.

Throughout the two hours of intense and heated competition, these corps will present music ranging anywhere from classical to cool jazz to Broadway favorites.

Headlining this year's production is the 6th ranked corps in the world, The Phantom Regiment. Antonin Dvorak's New World Symphony is the inspiration for the 1989 Phantom Regiment production 'From the New World...to a New Age.'

Based on rich folk melodies, this classical corps from Rockford/Loves Park, Ill., has created a program filled with the spirit of Czech folk dances, native American rhythms, and Black spirituals, as well as utilizing jazz and blues motifs.

A Drum Corps International finalist since 1974, the Regiment continues its tradition of exploring symphonic sound and truly being the 'classical' corps.

Also performing in this 1989 program will be Spirit of Atlanta from Atlanta, Ga., the Blue Knights from Denver, Colo., the Colts from Dubuque, Iowa, and the Troopers from Casper, Wy. As an added feature, Southwind from Montgomery, Ala., will also be a competitor.

Advance ticket sales are $7 for reserved seating and $6 for general admission. Sales at the gate will be $8 for reserved seating and $7 for general admission.

Mail ticket orders along with a stamped self-addressed envelope to Sounds Along the Golden Coast, P.O. Box 1008, Biloxi, MS 39533, or call 601/392-7661 or 601/435-4406 or 610/42-0435.

As an added feature to the competition, a band clinic will be conducted by The Phantom Regiment. This clinic will take place at the Biloxi Municipal Stadium from 3 to 5 p.m. Admission will be free with purchase of competition ticket.

The Sounds Along the Golden Coast is one of more than 50 Drum Corps International (DCI) events this summer leading up to the DCI World Championships, Aug. 14-19 in Kansas City, Mo.

Ever thought of unloading the terrible burden of your fortune: the superfluous portion of your nest egg, the pretentious elements of your estate, the countless little luxuries which are so commonplace that you have come to look upon them as necessities?

You say that these are not burdens, let alone terrible burdens? I'm sure that at least some of these things are arguable, but one man who walked the region of Galilee disagrees: "Do not lay up for yourselves an earthly treasure. Moths and rust corrode; thieves break in and steal. Make it your practice instead to store up heavenly treasure, which neither moths nor rust corrode, nor thieves break in and steal. Remember, where your treasure is, there your heart is also." (Mt. 6:19-21)

Have you ever felt that you are saddled with burdens in life which you would do much better without? Aside from the burdens which are beyond your control, have you ever reviewed in your mind those burdens which you have the power to unload?

Perhaps those first questions assume something which may not be true, namely, that all of us have and understand "bur-

Now don't say half facetiously that you need to go dump your spouse who is undoubtedly a millstone hanging around your neck. Obviously, given the raw statistics of divorce, 50 percent of all who get married feel this way eventually about their spouse, and they make a statement through divorce.

But what do you consider a burden anyway? Are you a workaholic? If you are, you have a heavy burden, whether you recognize it or not—a burden which may wreck your relationship with your spouse and children by stealing quantity and quality time which should be shared and used jointly as spouses and parents.

Could it be that many of the things which you consider burdens are in reality not burdens, and that many of the things which you consider wholesome, necessary or useful are in reality burdens?

Jehovah's Witnesses provide teens with information to fight peer pressure

Should I smoke, pot, drink, or have sex before marriage? What if I have a crush on a girl? These are the types of questions that teenagers are often asked by their peers.

Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious group, have developed a program to help teenagers resist peer pressure. The program is called "The Bible—God's Word or Man's?"

William Nicholas, delivered a message to the teens. He said, "The Bible is the source of all wisdom and knowledge. It is the only book that can help you make the right choices in life."

The program is designed to help teenagers understand the Bible and its teachings. It includes a booklet called "The Bible—God's Word or Man's?" which contains questions and answers on various topics.

The program is being held at the First Presbyterian Church in Slidell, Louisiana. It is open to all teenagers, regardless of their religious beliefs. The program is free of charge.

Bible school planned by First Presbyterian

The First Presbyterian Church in Slidell, Louisiana, is planning a Bible school for teenagers. The school will be held from July 17 to July 19, 1989.

practice 'Godly Devotion' every day.

Such knowledge and experience, if using it, coupled with the right prayers, will make a difference to you. He will no longer seem like a distant figure but more like a trusted, person-friend. Having such a friendship with God is what will help you do what is right—even when it is extremely tempting not to.

Jehovah's Witnesses strongly believe that problems such as teenage pregnancy, abortion, sexually transmitted diseases, freed marriages, alcohol and drug abuse are triggered as a direct result of watering down the high moral standards of the Bible.

The result has proven to be a stark use of misery, frustration, regret, hopelessness and suicide for young people. The fact is every minute of every day one teenager in the U.S. attempts suicide—and every hour and forty-five minutes one person dies.

At the conclusion of the discussion a new book entitled "Questions Young People Ask—Answers that Work" was released. All young persons between the ages of 10 and 19 received a free copy. The book is beautifully illustrated with dozens of color photographs.

Youth of different nationalities and from such diverse areas as Europe, Asia, Africa and South America are portrayed. This drives home the fact that Christian youths everywhere are experiencing similar problems and successfully facing them with the help of God's word. Parents were encouraged to use this book as a basis for family bible study.

The information is not only helpful to youths, many of the chapters offer insight into problems faced by adult Christians as well. Problems such as shyness, depression, loneliness and unemployment are discussed.

The convention continues today. Topics to be discussed are 'Pursuing Godly Devotion By Resisting Temptations,' 'Manifesting Deeds of Godly Devotion As Men Under Christ's Headship,' 'As Women Showing Proper Subjection' and 'As Children Who Obey Their Parents' and 'The Bible—God's Word or Man's?' The public is invited to attend all sessions which begin at 9:40 a.m. All seats are free. No collection taken.

The solution to cataracts has never been clearer than it is now, at Slidell Memorial.

Sight. For most of us, it's everything. But when cataracts take it away, there's no treatment, no medication. Just surgery.

And now cataract surgery is more successful than ever, thanks to a NASA scientist who developed a high-technology intraocular lens (IOL) implant, polished for smoothness and clarity. This new lens is the most advanced IOL available.

And it's available in this area only at Slidell Memorial. Which means you don't have to go to a hospital in New Orleans to get your sight back.

Cataract surgery at Slidell Memorial, using a variety of IOL implants, is performed on an outpatient basis under local anesthesia, usually in less than an hour. Improvement begins at once, with normal vision returning in just weeks.

Post-operative care prevents infection and inflammation, and ensures the IOL's stability and the normal healing of the eyes. Some patients may require glasses to correct vision fully.

Slidell Memorial's cataract program is one of the ways we treat medical problems that require advanced treatment, conveniently close to home.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katie
McGuire Caire

"Life is just a bowl of cherries" or blueberries or peaches or bananas or such, judging by the colorful and tasty selections at our area supermarkets just now!

If you haven't already picked up some of those Mississippi home-grown blueberries at Jitney Jungle, hurry on over—you'll enjoy them!

Most of us are familiar with blueberry muffins or coffee cake or such, but have you tried blueberry pancakes with blueberry sauce for a lazy and leisurely Sunday breakfast? Try:

BLUEBERRY PANCAKES

BERRY SYRUP

For the pancakes, add the berries to your favorite pancake batter. And for the sauce:

- 2 cups fresh blueberries
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 1 Tbsp. fresh lemon juice
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla extract

Wash and crush berries. Add sugar, lemon juice, and salt, mixing well. In saucepan, bring

IN BRIEF

OPERATION RESCUE

The Christian Action Group is the coordinator of 'Operation Rescue' in Mississippi. The rescue movement supports organizing human blockades at abortion facilities to prevent pregnant mothers and abortion center employees from gaining access to the facility while sidewalk counselors offer Christian alternatives to abortion.

Founder/director Roy McMillan announced a schedule of 'Rescue Rallies' in Jackson in July, leading up to rescues at abortion centers. Information regarding 'Operation Rescue' and other direct action activities of the Christian Action Group can be obtained by calling 948-6634 or 939-0633 in Jackson.

to the boiling point, and continue boiling for a minute, then add the vanilla, stir and let cool.

Chilled, this is also an excellent topping for puddings, cakes or ice cream (Makes 1 1/2 cups of sauce.)

Another tasty treat is:

BLUEBERRY COBBLER

2/3 to 1 cup sugar
2 Tbsp. cornstarch
3/4 cup water
3 cups fresh blueberries, cooked

1 Tbsp. butter or margarine
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
1 cup all-purpose flour
1/4 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/3 cup milk
3 Tbsp. salad oil

Mix the sugar and cornstarch in a saucepan, stir in the water and boil for a minute, stirring constantly, then add the berries, and pour into a 1 1/2 quart baking dish. Dot with butter or margarine and sprinkle cinnamon over.

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Combine the milk and oil and add to the dry mixture, stirring with a fork until the mixture forms a ball. Drop by spoonfuls onto the berries, then bake at 425 degrees for 25 or 30 minutes or until lightly browned. (Six servings.)

And, why not stop by Winn-Dixie for some of the juicy fresh peaches and some of the plums and nectarines on display, along with the cherries and pick up some bananas at Jitney Jungle along with canteloupes from Delchamps and mix up a fruit bowl?

To round out your menu, stop by National for one of the boneless round steaks on sale, and braise it down with sliced onions, in your heavy skillet over a medium fire, adding carrots and potatoes if you wish.

Or, look over the chicken leg quarters on extra-special sale at Winn-Dixie and bake or saute a few, reserving the remainder for other meals.

Winn-Dixie also has cut-up fryers on sale, and Jitney Jungle offers whole fryers, two to a bag, limit two bags, please.

Seafood cooking contest sponsored by museum

Summer and seafood go hand in hand on the Gulf Coast. Shrimp are in season, the crabs are coming in, and local anglers are heading out after the big ones.

But, it takes the cook back home to turn the day's catch into a delicious entree.

In honor of the fabulous cooks and to keep the coastal seafood cooking tradition alive, Pascagoula's Scranton Museum is sponsoring the Fourth Annual Flagship Festival Seafood Cooking Contest.

The contest, held in conjunction with Jackson County's Flagship Festival has continued to grow each year. Cooks from Mississippi and Alabama will showcase their favorite dishes.

Join in the fun this year and show off your best seafood recipes. Remember, if your family enjoys your recipe, it's no doubt a winner.

Entries will be accepted through Aug. 12. Original seafood recipes should be attached to an official entry form or on a 3" x 5" index card with the entrant's name, address, telephone number, recipe name and the words "Flagship Festival Seafood Cooking Contest."

Mail entries to Seafood Cooking Contest, Scranton Museum, P.O. Drawer 908, Pascagoula, MS 39567. Each contestant is limited to five entries.

Recipes will be judged on originality, completeness of instruction, availability of ingredients, ease of preparation, flavor, and appearance. Each recipe must contain some type of seafood.

Ten finalists will be chosen from the recipes submitted by mail. Finalists will be notified with instructions regarding a cookoff to be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, August 26 at the Jackson County Area Chamber of Commerce.

Official entry forms are available at the Scranton Museum in Pascagoula, all libraries in Jackson, George, Harrison and Hancock counties, plus the Jackson County Area Chamber of Commerce.

Last year's winning recipe:

SEAFOOD SIN

1/2 pound butter
3 ribs celery, chopped fine
1 large onion, chopped fine
2 medium green bell peppers, chopped fine
12 green onions, with tops, chopped fine
1 pound crabmeat, removing all cartilage and shell
1 1/2 pints shrimp, peeled and deveined
2 cans (4 oz. each) mushroom stems and pieces, drained

1 jar (2 oz.) pimiento, chopped and drained

1 can (11 oz.) nacho cheese soup

2 teaspoons garlic, minced
1 package (8 oz.) wide egg noodles

2 tablespoons flour

1 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon black pepper

1 tablespoon Tony Chachere's Creole Seasoning

1/2 pint half and half cream

3/4 cup cracker crumbs (use butter type crackers)

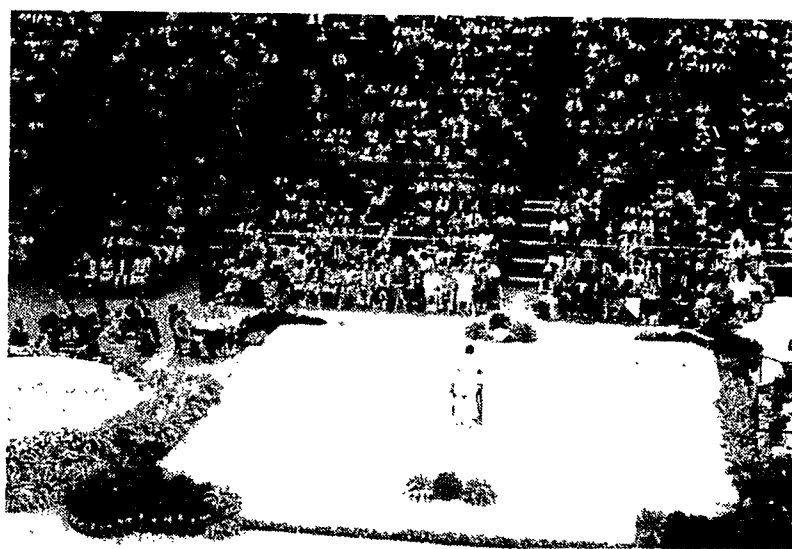

Boil and drain noodles according to package directions.

Saute celery, onion, bell pepper, green onion and garlic in butter for 10 to 15 minutes. Add shrimp, crabmeat and mushrooms and saute 10 minutes more. Add flour and mix well. Stir in soup, pimientos and cream, mixing well.

Combine seafood mixture with cooked noodles. Pour into a 9x13x2-inch baking dish. Sprinkle with cracker crumbs, dot lightly with butter and bake at 400° F. for 30 to 40 minutes.

Serves 8 to 10 people.

WATCHTOWER CONVENTION—With 7,005 voices singing the final song, A Prayer of Thanksgiving, Jehovah's Witnesses 'Godly Devotion' Convention at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum, the first of two, three-day sessions came to a close Sunday afternoon. A second convention concludes Sunday, July 16. Many more thousands from south and central Mississippi and southeast Louisiana will attend.

MILITARY MENTION

SGT PIERNAS

Tech. Sgt. Roy R. Piernas recently participated in the Strategic Air Command exercise, 'Global Shield '89.'

The exercise tested the readiness of SAC units around the world, as well as Air Force reserve and Air National Guard units, to carry out orders which support the United States national policy.

Piernas is a unit orderly room supervisor with the 7th Transportation Squadron at Carswell Air Force Base, Texas.

He is the son of Senora A. Piernas of Pass Christian.

The sergeant is a 1970 graduate of Pass Christian High School.

Episcopalians plan centennial celebration

Next year Christ Episcopal Church will be 100 years old. Mr. and Mrs. Burt Barrett are chairmen for the centennial and are already getting committees together to make plans for each month of the centennial year.

The centennial celebration will officially kick off on Sunday, Dec. 3 with a parish breakfast followed by a Christmas bake sale and introduction of the Christ Church Centennial Cookbook.

A sampling of what's in store for area residents includes the annual Working Crafts Fair, a 10K run, a community fish fry and raffle, a bike race, an evening of 'Memories of Camille' a time capsule, a boat race and a 'Good Morning America' TV presentation. All these are in addition to the annual Harvest Dinner and Silver Tea, long traditions of Christ Church.

Centennial T-shirts, commemorative silver crosses, the cookbook and aprons will be available for sale throughout the year. All proceeds and donations will go to the Christ Church capital fund.

The highlight of the centennial year will be the homecoming weekend at which time parishioners and friends of Christ Church and former parishioners who have moved away from the area will be invited to spend a weekend in Bay St. Louis with a dinner and dance on Friday night, a special luncheon and group tours and activities throughout the day on Saturday and a special centennial church service on Sunday with Bishop Allen officiating at the Eucharist.

Father Arthur (Nick) Johnson is rector of Christ Church and his office, 467-7757, will have further information about the centennial as it becomes available.

The committee meets at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Barrett home. All members are asked to attend.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, JULY 16, 1989-1B

SECTION B

At 83, Mauffray continues to run hardware business

If it can't be found in other hardware stores, chances are that whatever you're seeking is available at one of Bay St. Louis' unofficial historic landmarks, Mauffray's Hardware.

The store's almost 83-year-old proprietor (his birthday will be Aug. 10) can give you precise directions to the gadget, gizmo or whatchit you want.

"Go downstairs to the wall on your left, take three steps and you will find it at knee-level," he tells a customer.

Mauffray should know where it is or where to order it for you if he does not have one in stock; he began working in the store in 1913 when he was only seven years old.

"Do you know how much I was paid? Fifty cents a week! That was a lot of money in those days, especially for a seven-year-old," he said.

His employer was his own father, Joseph O. Mauffray,

"He took his old work clothes, turned all the pants upside down and shook them. Then he gathered up the change that fell out and took it to the bank."

After the death of his father, who would have been 119 this year if he were still alive, Mauffray inherited the hardware business and continues to run it himself with the help of his wife Flora. He has made a few changes, such as the warehouse section which replaced four small wooden warehouses in 1950.

Due to four massive heart attacks, the first of which occurred in 1985, he has also modified his hours to 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., Monday through Saturday, on his doctor's orders.

"My doctor approves of what I'm doing, and he knows exactly what I'm doing," Mauffray said as he walks through his store, where he keeps a number of items he says are rarely sold ing that because his son has never been interested in going into the hardware business, he has simply continued running the place himself.

He has had four written offers for purchase of the store as well as a number of verbal offers, including one from Alaska. Mauffray said the business is just not for sale.

"It looks like I'm going to die with my shoes on, right here," he said with a laugh.

"He would be happy as a lark if he could live here in the store. This store is his life," his wife added.

Commonly called "Uncle Aldie" by the community, including a few active people older than he is, Mauffray keeps a list of items customers request. When he orders something for a specific customer, he often orders a few more to keep in stock. Sometimes, he can not supply the item because it is no longer obtainable.

"We had not five cents' worth of damage in the '47 hurricane, but this place was wrecked after Camille. The U.S. engineers did me a terrible thing," Mauffray said.

"They came in here with their machinery and took it all into dump trucks. I tried to stop them but they told me they had instructions to pick up anything that was storm-wrecked."

"I saw several thousand dollars of usable merchandise go out the door."

Mauffray attempted to find out what became of his property and recover it, but was never able to find out where it was taken.

He still has a few old-time things like slide-type clothespins and iron cooking pots available.

"We have the only beer crocks in this part of the world," he said, displaying a selection of cream-colored crocks with blue markings on them. He has three, five and 10-gallon sizes in addition to a number of small crockery items, but recently sold the largest beer crock.

"A local institution bought them and when the payment came in, it said it was for two flowerpots. So, I put them down as flowerpots."

"We also have gumbo dishes that ring," he said, picking up two and clinking them together.

"Most of today's gumbo dishes don't ring. Today they sound terrible." To demonstrate, Mauffray picked up two plastic bowls from among the few plastic items in the store, and clinked them together.

He sells pot-mending kits, kitchen match holders, galvanized and ungalvanized nails, fuses, keys and the short, kick-off type of rubber boots in sizes ranging from the smallest available for ladies to the largest for men.

"If it says brass, it isn't, almost every time," he told a customer who dropped by, explaining that the particular item he wanted in brass was not solid brass, but did have a brass coating. Mauffray has a method of testing for such imitations.

He did sell a large number of spigots that were actually brass to a group of out-of-state visitors who came in and made a purchase of several hundred dollars' worth of items.

To some other strangers, he sold a lot of stoneware.

While he knows most of his customers by name, he also remembers the strangers who Mauffray has slide-type clothespins and pot mending kits.

come in, because many tell him they can not get a particular item back home, then tell him where they are from.

One of Mauffray's favorite stories is the one about the young woman from New York who happened to be in the store when he was selling someone else a crab knife. She had never heard of such a utensil so the store owner explained it to her.

The woman was so charmed by it she bought several to take home to friends. The following summer, she returned and bought six more.

to welcome the worldwide head of the Order of the Sacred Heart, who was stopping by on the way to New Orleans.

He delivered the entire speech in the classical French he had learned from his father's books.

After graduating from St. Stanislaus in 1924, he became active in community affairs. In the 1950s, he served as president of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce. A member of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, he is a who opened the store in October of 1903. The elder Mauffray's original ledger is still kept near the cash register and is often displayed to visitors.

now anywhere else.

His only child, Lawrence Alden Mauffray Jr., is now in his mid-50s and the hardware store owner does not expect his son to succeed him.

"He's had half a century to decide," Mauffray said, explain-

He used to have a lot of merchandise which had gone out of production. Because the items were no longer manufactured, customers appreciated being able to buy them. He lost almost all of those things after Hurricane Camille.

Alden Mauffray displays an assortment of crocks.

Mauffray knows where everything in the shop is, despite an appearance of disarray on some of his shelves.

"I have a special place for everything and if I change a place, I do it for a very good reason. I also tell Mrs. Mauffray immediately," the store owner said.

If someone asks him how he remembers everything, he tells the story of the famous pianist, Paderewski, and his response to the fellow who asked him how to get to Carnegie Hall—"Practice, practice, practice."

Mauffray remembers a great deal in addition to things pertaining to hardware; he remembers some of the history of Bay St. Louis.

He recalls the days when famous visitors came here, like Chief Red Fox of the Sioux tribe, with whom he shared a stage in 1918, or China's first Catholic Cardinal, Cardinal Tien of the Society of the Divine Word, for whom he served in an honor during a visit to St. Augustine Seminary.

Born and raised in the house which is now the Landmark Restaurant, Mauffray got an early exposure to community affairs when, at age 15 1/2, he was selected by the city fathers a former grand knight of the Knights of Columbus.

He was active in Boy Scouts and once actually served as a den mother when a Cub Scout pack temporarily lost its leader to maternity leave. After about 10 years, he retired from regular participation but was often invited back to manage the games at larger camp gatherings.

He also served in the Merchant Marine, which was one of the two times he visited Europe. Mauffray's other visit to Europe was when he was selected as a voting delegate to Rotary International in 1953.

He has traveled elsewhere, with his favorite destinations including several world's fairs and the 1932 Rose Bowl, where among those he saw playing were two local men on Tulane University's team, John A. "Baby Grand" Scafield and Harry "Wop" Glover.

No matter where he and his wife go, Mauffray always calls Bay St. Louis home. For many years after leaving the Landmark house following his marriage at age 26, Mauffray and his wife moved to a home on Citizen Street. They now reside on North Beach Boulevard.

MR. AND MRS. KURT RAYMOND

Raymond-Ladner

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church was the setting for the recent marriage of Carol Ann Ladner and Kurt Michael Raymond, both of Bay St. Louis. The Reverend Ken Landry celebrated a Nuptial Mass and officiated at the afternoon ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Ladner of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mrs. Joyce C. Raymond of Bay St. Louis and the late Charles F. Raymond Jr. of New Orleans.

Baskets of spring flowers adorned the sanctuary. Musical selections were presented by organist Mrs. John McKenna of Bay St. Louis and soloist Jeanine Grego of New Orleans.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white crystal organza. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a modified sabrina neckline and keyhole back adorned with chantilly lace and featured elbow length puffed sleeves. The attached chapel length train was embellished with matching lace. A pearl band embellished with tiny flowers held a waist length veil of illusion.

The bride carried a traditional style bouquet of white silk roses and pearls with iridescent illusion.

Maid of honor was Mary Ladner of Bay St. Louis, sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Jane Ladner and Theresa Grego of Bay St. Louis, sisters of the bride; Kelly Ramsey of Waveland; Sheral Robinson of Mandeville, sister of the groom; and Angela Binder of Slidell, cousin of the bride.

Adrienne Pizza of Slidell, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The attendants were identically attired in tea length gowns of seafoam green taffeta, each with cuffed sleeves and full skirt with large bow fastened at the back waistline. They carried cascades of peach roses and ribbons interspersed with iridescent baby's breath.

Bryan Raymond of Metairie, brother of the groom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Dwain Raymond and Chip Raymond of Metairie and Gerald Raymond Sr. of Gretna, brothers of the groom; Mark Necaise of Bay St. Louis and Brad Robinson of Mandeville, nephew of the groom.

Ushers were Kenny Shiyou of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the groom, and Stanley Authement of Waveland.

Gerald Raymond Jr. of Gretna, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Ladner chose for her daughter's wedding a softly flowing peach tea length dress with pleated skirt. Mrs. Raymond was attired in a royal blue dress adorned with gold buttons on the front and sleeves.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Waveland American Legion Hall with entertainment provided by 'Coast'.

Assisting were Ethel Favre of Bay St. Louis; Gayle Calamari, Theresa Calamari, Ruth Binder and Diane Piazza, all of Slidell; and Evelyn Sticker of Metairie.

Following a Caribbean cruise, the couple resides in Waveland.

Pre-Nuptial Parties

—A surprise shower was hosted at the home of Mrs. Gayle Calamari in Slidell. Co-hosts were Ruth Binder, Diane Piazza and Theresa Calamari.

—A miscellaneous shower was hosted by Anna Schmidt in Bay St. Louis. Co-hosts were Bonnie Ladner, Ethel Favre and Evelyn Sticker.

—Employees of Northshore Regional Medical Center hosted a surprise shower in honor of the bride-to-be.

—Sheral Robinson, Nancy Necaise and Linda Shiyou were co-hostesses at a shower at the home of Mrs. Joyce C. Raymond in Bay St. Louis.

—A rehearsal party was hosted at the home of Mrs. Joyce C. Raymond.

Foreman-Ladner

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Foreman of Orangefield, Tex. announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Gayla Renee Foreman, to Russell Charles Ladner, son of Millie Gordy of Orangefield, Tex. and Samuel C. Ladner of Beaumont, Tex.

Miss Foreman is a graduate of Orangefield High School and attended Lamar University. She is employed with Orange Baptist Hospital.

Mr. Ladner is a graduate of Orangefield High School and is employed with Trinity Rail Car. He is a former resident of Bay St. Louis.

The couple will exchange vows July 22 in an afternoon ceremony at Pine Forest Baptist Church in Vidor, Tex. Relatives and friends of the couple are invited to attend.

Three attain realtor status

Real Estate License Examinations were held Monday, July 10, in Jackson for those Mississippi residents desiring to enter the field of real estate sales, rentals, appraisals and related real estate activities. Fourteen individuals applied for the brokers license and 59 individuals applied for the salespersons license.

Sixty-one percent of those sitting for the brokers examination successfully completed the requirements and will now become licensed real estate brokers. Sixty-four percent of those sitting for the salespersons license successfully completed the examination and will now be awarded the salespersons license.

There are approximately 5,818 licensed salespersons, 4,387 licensed brokers and 1,412 licensed real estate companies and corporations in Mississippi.

Commissioner Chairman Harry J. Joachim, 5th Congressional District, Biloxi, announced the following who have been issued licenses:

Real estate salespersons licenses: Kathleen V. Gardache, Sheila V. McMahon and Tina Maria Stockstill, all of Bay St. Louis.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Eight and Forty

The Harrison County Salon 218 of the Eight and Forty met recently in the club house of the American Legion Post 139 on Green Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis for election of officers for 1989-90.

Those elected were Chapeau, Lucille Boudreaux; Le Demi Petit Chapeau Premier, Bernie Eschee; Le Demi Petit Chapeau Deauxieme, Genevieve Cole; L'Aumonier, Hazel Robinson and L'archiviste, Marjorie Schultz; La Concierge, Evelyn Burns; and Pouvoir, Lucille Wilkerson.

Chapeau Boudreaux was in charge of the business session and Past Departmental Chapeau Beatrice Ladner was appointed to perform the initiation ceremonial.

She was assisted by First Demi Bernise Eschee and Children and Youth Chairman Genevieve Cole and Anna Gayout as L'Aumonier in the ritualistic work.

The table was covered with a white cloth and was decorated with red carnations and red candles.

The four new partners initiated were Marjorie Schultz, Janet Aime, Christi LaFonatinne and Susan Piazza. They were presented with red carnations.

Delegates were elected for the 42nd annual Marche Departmental to be held in Jackson, Saturday, Aug. 5 and Sunday, Aug. 6 at American Legion Auxiliary building.

Officers will be elected for the 1989-90.

After the meeting of the Salon, refreshments were furnished by partners Genevieve Cole, Beatrice Ladner and Evelyn Burns.

Mensa Society

The monthly South Mississippi Mensa meeting was Saturday, July 8, in Gulfport. Guest speaker was Bill Haynie, a resident of Biloxi. Topic was "Creativity in the Renaissance Period."

The presentation included a number of slides taken by Mr. Haynie of great Renaissance structures and art. The open discussion following the presentation included great musicians, philosophers, writers and architects.

Mr. Haynie's talk was based on a course he teaches at the University of Austin, Texas. He is retired from the publishing business but is quite active as music director for Westminster Presbyterian Church in Gulfport, as an art collector and appraiser, teacher of short courses at the University of Austin and as a world traveler.

The meeting was well-attended by the membership, and Norton Nelson of BaySide Park was a guest of Mr. Roy Burkart. The members also welcomed four new members who joined the society in June.

Nine members of SMM attended the annual gathering this year in Atlanta, Ga. for five days beginning June 28. General topic presented was "Ethics."

The various group topics were multifarious including: war, euthanasia, genetics and organ transplants. Prior to group discussion the topics were presented by highly-qualified panelists consisting of professors, doctors, lawyers and law enforcement professionals with differing viewpoints on each topic.

For information about Mensa, call Roy Burkart at 467-4262, Jim Tucker at 832-9613 or Nina Bratt at 475-5411 or 769-7480.

Personnel Administrators

The next meeting of the Harrison/Hancock Chapter of the American Society of Personnel Administrators will be Wednesday, July 19 at the Holiday Inn Gulfport on Hwy. 90 at noon.

Guest speaker will be Jack Walker, whose topic will be 'How to set up a drug screen program in one's business.' Anyone in the personnel profession interested in joining may pick up an application at the meeting or by calling Kit Glenn at 865-5530.

Mosses are ferns which grow in wet areas. They are found in swamps, bogs, and along the edges of ponds and lakes. They are also found in the understory of forests. Mosses are important in the ecosystem because they help to retain moisture in the soil and provide a habitat for many small animals. They are also used in horticulture and as a natural dye.

Sprucing up the bathroom

When it comes to the bathroom, many people think of it as a place where they can relax and unwind. However, it is also a place where many people spend a lot of time. Therefore, it is important to make sure that the bathroom is as comfortable and functional as possible. One way to do this is by sprucing up the bathroom. This can be done in many ways, such as by changing the color of the walls, adding a new rug, or installing a new shower curtain. Whatever you decide to do, make sure that you are making the bathroom a more pleasant place to be.

Early July signals pumpkin planting

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist

Red, white, blue and orange are the colors to be thinking about at this time of year. Red, white and blue is for the Fourth of July, and orange is for Halloween pumpkins.

There's no getting away from it, early July is the time for kins, but I've had them grow right across the garden.

Jack Be Little and Munchkin are two varieties of miniature pumpkins. Miniatures are popular for table decorations in the fall of the year. Like the standard-sized pumpkins, they have vigorous vines.

Big Max, which is actually a pumpkin-squash, or squash-weigh more than 400 pounds. One of the biggest problems with the large types is they cook while out in the field and have a tendency to rot.

The easiest way to tell a true pumpkin from the pumpkin-squash is the stem connecting the fruit to the vine. The pumpkin stem is hard and makes a good handle. The squash stem is soft and spongy and doesn't make a good handle for top of a jack-o'-lantern.

in Mississippi
Gardens

Summer may be the right time to grow pumpkins for Halloween, but it isn't the easiest time. Populations of insects in the garden, such as cucumber beetles and squash bugs, may be out of control by now, and these insects will jump on the tender young plants.

Diseases such as the mildews are also problems. Spraying at regular intervals with an approved fungicide and insecticide is critical to success. Summer grasses in the garden also can present a problem and must be controlled.

If by chance you planted pumpkins at the same time as your cucumbers and summer squash, the pumpkins will mature in August and must be harvested. As nostalgic as it may seem to have orange pumpkins dotting the summer garden, they'll rot quickly, so cut them and get them indoors where it's air conditioned. With luck you'll still have them at Halloween.

planting pumpkin seeds in gardens in order to have pumpkins to carve and enjoy on Halloween.

It's hard to think ahead to the end of October when our minds are on more timely subjects like the weather, fishing, vacations and tomato spotted wilt virus.

Yet, since most pumpkins need anywhere from 90 to 110 days from planting seeds to harvest of the mature pumpkins, this is planting time. Commercial pumpkin growers may even plant a little earlier since they need to have their pumpkins on the market by mid-October for Halloween sales.

Pumpkin plants are large, sprawling vines that need a lot of room. Because of this, they aren't suited for small gardens. The seeds are typically planted in hills (groups of four or five seeds—spaced 6 or 8 feet apart in rows that are 8 or 10 feet apart).

Once the seeds germinate and the young plants become established, they are thinned to two plants per hill. Most gardeners should plant only a hill or two to meet family needs since each plant produces more than one pumpkin.

Like other vegetables, pumpkins prefer a well-drained, sandy loam soil with a slightly acid pH of 5.8 to 6.3. The plants require moderate levels of fertilizer. Once they leave their early bush-type growth and begin to 'run,' it is time to side dress with nitrogen fertilizer source.

There are several varieties of pumpkins available, but the one most commonly planted is Connecticut Field. This variety makes bright orange, ribbed pumpkins that can weigh as much as 20 pounds. Another variety to consider is Howdens Field which is similar to Connecticut Field but more uniform in pumpkin size and shape.

Spirit is a hybrid pumpkin that was named an all America Selection winner several years ago. Spirit pumpkins may weigh up to 15 pounds. The vines are reported to be a little shorter than standard pump-type pumpkin, is typically grown for its large fruit that can weigh 40 or 50 pounds. The color isn't a true Halloween orange, and the fruit aren't ribbed like pumpkins.

There are several other varieties of large pumpkin-squash, but these frequently don't grow as well in Mississippi as in more northern states. Atlantic variety typically wins large pumpkin contests with specimens that

OTHER SPACE RACE

'Innovation' at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, July 25, on Mississippi ETV, looks at space programs underway in western Europe when 'The Other Space Race—Part II' profiles the countries of Europe that have surpassed the superpowers in the contest to commercialize space.

Although the United States and the Soviet Union still lead the manned exploration of space, the European Space Agency is equipped to "go it alone." ESA's new Ariane V launch vehicle, Columbus orbital module and Hermes space shuttle could be used as part of an independent and profitable European space effort.

'The Other Space Race—Part II' explains how the countries of western Europe were able to put nationalism aside in order to establish a comprehensive space program.
